Summary of activities conducted during the quarter (Limited to 8000 characters)

Overview: This planning grant began March 5, 2014, when we began the process of evaluating our programs, identifying the needs of adult learners in our region, and identifying the gaps to address those needs. Our consortium began with three members (Rancho Santiago Community College District, Orange Unified School District, and Santa Ana Unified School District) and three partners (Orange County Department of Education, Garden Grove Unified School District, and Orange County Sheriff's Department). Since then other community agencies have been joining (i.e. Deihi Community Center). We hired a project coordinator, Chrissy Gascon, to oversee the details of this grant; a researcher, Lisa DiDonato, to find and report on statistics and data for our region; Paula Kusenda as clerical support to take minutes of consortium and task force meetings; and a web designer, Robert Lee, to create a website for the Rancho Santiago Aduit Ed Consortium. Specific details of the following may be found in the narrative reports being submitted.

Meetings: We have held five Consortium meetings through July 31, 2014: March 17, April 28, May 27, June 24, and July 21. Future meetings have been set through the fall. We have held one round of task force meetings with faculty and administrators to discuss the specific issues with each of the five program areas. A summary of the discussions and suggestions was completed and distributed to the task force participants. A second set of task force meetings has been set for August, 2014.

First Objective - Evaluate Existing Programs: A template was created to evaluate the programs in our region. This evaluation is complete to date, based on the information we have received from our members and partners. However, this document will be continually updated as we learn about programs and classes that other agencies might be offering.

Second Objective - Identify unmet needs of adult learners: The evaluation of the needs of adult learners and ways to address the gaps are being evaluated through a combination of the reports from the researcher, task force meetings, and consortium meetings. The researcher has created an interactive map with current programs, census data, and other data, so that we can clearly identify where the needs might be in our community. The participants at the task force meetings have given input regarding what they have observed first-hand in the community and in the classrooms. We have found some needs in common by all programs (i.e. child care, transportation, student disabilities, etc.) and specific needs by some programs. This is very much still a work in progress.

Fourth Objective – Address the gaps: Although this discussion began in the initial consortium meetings, the specifics are being discussed in much more detail at the program task force meetings and with the researcher based on the data she has discovered. We have not determined specifically what the plans will be to address the gaps; however, the discussion to date has focused on the following: need for programs offered in more locations, additional counselors, DSPS support, and student support services (registration, assessment, orientation, and educational plans). Revising courses and writing new curriculum for alignment with all adult education providers as well as articulating with credit programs have also been part of the discussion in addressing the gaps. Much more will be done in the coming months on this objective, as the consortium committee, task force participants, and researcher focus on the results of the meetings and
